Suicide of a Baronet. - Yesterday morning great excitement was caused in fashionable circles by the rumour that Sir Arthur Willesden, Bart., had committed suicide. The report was found to be only too true. The sad event must have occurred many hours before the deceased gentleman was discovered. He was found yesterday morning in his drawing-room, at No. - Jermyn-street, having run himself through with a foil, from which he had taken the button. A short note was found in his handwriting, stating that the dreadful act had resulted from pecuniary difficulty. His valet gave evidence that the deceased gentleman had ordered a postchaise-and-four to be ready for him at a late hour on Tuesday evening, so that it is supposed he had at one time thoughts of evading his numerous creditors by going abroad. We, c. [It is observable that the penny-a-liner of the period was very inferior in sublimity of style to his successor of the present date.] About the...
