The city officers also proceeded at law against the secretary of the new institution for using the word city in its title (Arbciter-Sekretariat der Stadi Nuernberg). The court held that the use of the word city was restricted by law to municipal institutions and imposed a fine upon the secretary. The first Arbciter-Sekretariat in Germany nevertheless survived these initial discouragements and has since enjoyed a solid extension of usefulness. Its annual report has grown from a pamphlet of 27 pages to one of 117 pages, and it has undertaken investigations of wages and hours of labor and housing conditions in Nuremburg, the results of which have been separately published. The number of persons who consulted the bureau for information or service in 1898 was 13,938, an average of 45 a...
