

Recollections of an Old Man Seventy Years in Dixie, 1827-1897

By David Sullins

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 74 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1910 edition. Excerpt: . . . raining death among us. The Crescent Regiment from New Orleans had been ordered to dislodge them. And the brave fellows had charged down the hill, over timber and through underbrush and woods, yelling and firing as they went, though shot and shell were plowing long furrows through their ranks. But still on they pressed. They had passed the hollow, and were just beginning the difficult ascent on the other side. All hearts were aching and prayers were going up. And then the blue eyes of Breckinridge were filled with tears, as through a rift in the smoke he saw the line on the face of the hill begin to waver a little and then fall back. It was a fearful moment. Death was shrieking in a thousand shells all about us, and solid shots were tearing the limbs from the trees overhead. Something must be...

READ ONLINE

[9.26 MB]

Reviews

Extremely helpful to all category of individuals. I have got go through and that i am confident that i will likely to read through once again again later on. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Nikita Herzog

It is simple in read easier to understand. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. Its been designed in an exceptionally easy way in fact it is just following i finished reading through this publication where basically transformed me, alter the way i really believe.

-- Ms. Christy Ondricka DDS